best version of yourself. If you look good, you feel good. You're expecting your second child, but you've been honest about gaining a lot of weight during your first pregnancy with Tom Braddock. Was the weight hard to lose?

I gained 70 pounds in my first pregnancy. I was 204, I couldn't even see my belly. I ended up having a thyroid condition that they didn't know about it, but it doesn't matter. I still had to lose the 80 pounds. It took me 18 months.

You devote a chapter to finding love, which you say you've had problems with.

I worked with a really good therapist a few years ago. She was a Mary O'Connell. I was really co-dependent. I couldn't get out of a relationship and I was just stuck, and she made me read...

one of her books called "It's Time No One's Coming to Save You. And I needed someone to hold me accountable, and the person I needed to hold me accountable was me, and I needed to stop saying, 'OK, I'm gonna do this later, and if it happens then I'm gonna do it.'"

Love isn't happening.

Love isn't happening. And she told me to get grateful, and she told me very hard things that I didn't want to hear. Really, you think you're gonna change someone?

It was tough, and I cried... We weren't going to work because that's what I had to do. It was one of the best chapters.

CELEBRITY ROUNDUP

'Biggest Loser' contestant: Show is 'fat-shaming disaster'

Kai Hibbard may have lost 120 pounds when she came on The Biggest Loser in 2006, but she doesn't have much praise for the reality series.

The show, in which obese contestants compete to lose the most weight, is "a fat-shaming disaster that I'm embarrassed to have participated in," she told The New York Post.

The trainers, she said, "would say things to contestants like, 'You're going to die before your children grow up.' You're going to die, just like your mother." We've picked out your favorite quote — that was in a text message. Our production assistants told a contestant to take up smoking because it would cut her appetite in half.

The 10th season finale will air live on Jan. 20.

HAPPY ENDING
Bachelorone Desiree Hartsock may have her happily ever after.

Hartsock said Chris Siegfried in Palos Verdes, California, on Sunday, a rep for the couple told US Weekly. The pair got engaged on the 2013 Bachelorone finale. They currently live in Seattle.

THE LEGAL SCENE
Attorneys for the Beanie Boys are asking a New York court to order the maker of Monster Energy drink to pay almost $2.5 million in legal fees to cover their costs in a copyright violation case.

Litigators made the request in court papers Friday. In June, a Manhattan federal court jury awarded the rappers $1.7 million in damages.

Corona, California-based Monster Energy Co. had admitted wrongly using the group's songs in a video that was online for five weeks.

BOX OFFICE

'American Sniper' breaks record

Clint Eastwood's re-rated Iraq War drama American Sniper opened in January like a superhero movie in July, taking in a record $10.3 million over the Martin Luther King Jr. four-day weekend.

The film's unprecedented success obliterated forecasts and set numerous box-office records. It easily surpassed Avatar to become the biggest January weekend ever.

The record-setting wide-release opening is also true for the 46-year-old Eastwood, whose previous best weekend was the $29.3 million wide release of 2009's Gran Torino.

The Weinstein Co.'s well-reviewed animated film Paddington opened with an estimated $28.2 million over the four-day weekend. The Kevin Hart, Josh Gadd comedy The Wedding Ringer debuted with $24.5 million for Sony Pictures.

However, Michael Mann's cyber-thriller Blackhat, starring Chris Hemsworth, flopped. Made for about $70 million by Legendary Pictures for distributor Universal Pictures, "Blackhat" bombed with just $4.4 million.

In its fourth weekend of release, the civil rights drama Selma took in $8.1 million on the holiday weekend that honors its protagonist, King.

1. American Sniper, $10.3 million
2. Paddington, $28.2 million
3. The Wedding Ringer, $24.5 million
4. Zookin A, $21.4 million
5. Selma, $11 million
6. Ann the Bride, $12 million
7. The Promotion Game, $8.1 million
8. The Reckless: The Battle of the Five Armies, $6 million
9. Night at the Museum: Secret of the Tomb, $5.1 million
10. Unbroken, $5 million
